

Neets

To the infinity and beyond

Neets has travelled thru a creative environment to establish what kind of company we wish to be. The journey involved a trip into space, thru the great ocean and ended at a rock concert with the well known Aerosmith where lyrics such as “elevator” and “going down” were words that exactly describe how the journey went on.

Also the local population had an impact on the buzzwords that helped us describe Neets as the company we would like it to be - and certainly also established what we work on not being. We both experienced arrogance and top quality service – and the latter is definitely what we would like to be on the label that describes Neets.

The brainstorm that founded the statements which Neets employees describe as their goals were made in an extremely service minded environment.

Food and massage walked hand in hand with service orientated staff that made sure that Neets could concentrate on their mission – making a joined understanding on where we are going as a company and what it takes to be your business partner.

Neets is your engaged partner

The most important word that describes Neets as your partner is engagement. The people that work at Neets are engaged in their job, be it development and support, sales or marketing, we believe in what we do.

We believe that this makes us a professional business partner. Neets staff and management are convinced that what it takes to be your business partner is hard work and engagement and that little extra – to the infinity and beyond.
